How to Get the Best Deal Every Time

Random House This is a completely new and revised third edition of a bestselling business book. It tells the reader how to make better deals, and is packed with advice on how to handle negotiations whether for big stakes (property, long-term contracts, companies, territories etc) or smaller ones such as getting your car fixed, buying TVs or videos or negotiating with spouses or colleagues. The growing economies of the Pacific Rim, and the changing face of Eastern Europe are addressed in new examples and case studies. Since the publication of the second edition in 1989, Gavin Kennedy has developed other self-assessment exercises which are included, and the text has been made more interactive. It remains a popular, lively and above all useful guide to every aspect of negotiation.

Being the Story of the 11th Battalion AIF in the Great War

Andrews UK Limited For Australia the First World War remains the most costly conflict in terms of deaths and casualties. From a population of fewer than five million, 416,809 men enlisted, of which over 60,000 were killed and 156,000 wounded, gassed, or taken prisoner. In general terms with Australian unit histories the quality of authorship is very good, most of them share the common strength of making plentiful mention of the individual officers and men who served, fought, died, was wounded, or taken prisoner, or who came safely home at the end of it all. They are a prime source for genealogists and military historians.

Indie Author's Toolbox: How to create, publish, and market your Kindle book

Lulu.com Read this if you want to sell more books, make more money as an author, or rank higher in your category. My name is Nick Vulich. The first thing you should know about me is I'm not a writer, and I'm not an expert on self-publishing either. I never worked in the industry, and I don't have any experience working for the big publishers. In fact, the only thing I consider myself an expert in is how to sell on eBay, Amazon, and Fiverr... So why should you listen to me? Like most indie authors, I came into publishing through the back door. I had a story to tell, and one day I just sat down and let it all come out. What I wrote wasn't pretty, or polished...but, it helped a lot of people sell more stuff on eBay. What I couldn't say with fancy prose, I made up for with enthusiasm. Because of that, my books sold. I'm not going to lie to you. It wasn't easy. I read just about every book available on self-publishing. I studied up on KDP Free days, Countdown Deals, price pulsing...

An Operatic Ethnography

Rowman Altamira Paul Atkinson explores the remarkable world of opera through his fieldwork with the internationally known Welsh National Opera company. He demonstrates how cultural phenomena are produced and enacted by taking us on stage and behind the scenes into the collective social action that goes into the realization of an opera. Atkinson's work will appeal to anthropologists and sociologists who study the performance arts, as well as to those engaged in theatre arts, opera, and music.

The Photographer's Eye

Composition and Design for Better Digital Photos

CRC Press Design is the single most important factor in creating a successful photograph. The ability to see the potential for a strong picture and then organize the graphic elements into an effective, compelling composition has always been one of the key skills in making photographs. Digital photography has brought a new, exciting aspect to design - first because the instant feedback from a digital camera allows immediate appraisal and improvement; and second because image-editing tools make it possible to alter and enhance the design after the shutter has been pressed. This has had a profound effect on the way digital photographers take pictures. Now published in sixteen languages, The Photographer's Eye continues to speak to photographers everywhere. Reaching 100,000 copies in print in the US alone, and 300,000+ worldwide, it shows how anyone can develop the ability to see and shoot great digital photographs. The book explores all the traditional approaches to composition and design, but crucially, it also addresses the new digital technique of shooting in the knowledge that a picture will later be edited, manipulated, or montaged to result in a final image that may be very different from the one seen in the viewfinder.

The Founder's Own Story of the Founding of Vineland, New Jersey (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from The Founder's Own Story of the Founding of Vineland, New Jersey Among the private papers of the late Charles K. Landis, which, in accordance with his Will, have recently come into the possession of the Historical and Antiquarian Society of Vineland, and which are held by this Society as among its most important and valued archives, was found the following very interesting sketch of the first steps taken, and of his first year's experiences in the Founding of Vineland. It would be scarcely possible for any other hand, though of a ready writer, to set forth so graphically and so vividly, the story of this unique settlement, itself so unlike anything the world had ever before seen, in its plans, its purposes, and its achievement. It is due to the memory of this remarkable man, much misunderstood as he was in those early days, that this frank record of his secret thoughts and motives, as of his public acts, should be given to the public substantially as it came from his own hand. It was evidently written off-hand, in pencil, and bears no marks of subsequent revision. When this was written in 1882, after 21 years, Mr. Landis was already able to see, and had seen, with the natural eye, as before he had seen as in prophetic vision, brilliant and beneficent fruits of his great work. Indeed it was his remark in later years, that he always saw it from the beginning, just as we others see it now. Such was his profound faith in himself and in the soundness of the principles upon which he built. In this narrative of the events of 1861-2, he has introduced but few allusions to the later resulting conditions of which he might justly be proud. No one ever more truly "made the wilderness to blossom as the rose." Of no other could it more appropriately be said, "If you would see his monument, look around you."
